DAR Revolutionary War Exhibit

Opening ceremonies were held at Heritage Hall for the DAR Revolutionary War exhibit on September 3rd. The Ponaganset high school singers who sang the National Anthem were incredible and the speakers gave interesting information and perspectives! The audience mingled later while enjoying homemade time-period spiced cookies, ice tea and cucumber water. The exhibit will continue to be open daily 11-4 until Thursday, September 17th. This is the last site in RI where the exhibit will be displayed. Don't miss it!

Thank You

We thank Priscilla MacPherson for donating this collection of articles. They belonged to her cousin, Frances Pacheco, daughter of Frank and Germaine Pacheco.

We thank Ron and Rachel Milotte for donating two photo albums with images taken of the construction of the Branch River Wool Combing Company mill complex on Great Road in Branch Village in 1924.

We thank Paul St. Pierre for donating a Mezza Luna menu and potholders. Left to right- Paul St. Pierre, Kim Walker, Janet Robidoux.

We thank Marcel Labrecque(center) for a wooden 15 star United States flag that is representative of the one in effect when Slatersville was born. We also welcome Gary Narodowy (left) to the NSHA and thank him for hanging the flag! Also pictured is NSHA archivist, Al Menard.

Did you know?

The 15-star flag also sports 15 stripes because in the beginning the country was adding a stripe as well as a star for each new state added.

Slatersville was born in 1803. In 1818, the US officially stopped adding stripes to the American Flag under the "Flag Act of 1818." The flag grew to 15 stars and 15 stripes when Vermont and Kentucky joined the union.

The NSHA Archives are located at the Memorial Town Building, 1 Main Street, Slatersville.

Open every Monday through Wednesday from 10 am until 12 pm.

Please allow us to scan photos of family, friends and landmarks. It helps us to preserve our town's history!

Don't lose your family history! Please write names on the back of your family photos.

Annual Appeal 2026

Please help fund our historic preservation efforts. Make a tax-deductible 2026 donation! Renovations are nearly complete on the second floor of the Memorial Town Building, one of Slatersville's most iconic historic buildings. We just need to replace four large arched windows on the second floor and 9 windows on the first floor. Donations help significantly.

Donate via PayPal Giving Fund, or Venmo. You may also mail your cash or check donation to NSHA, P.O. Box 413, Slatersville, RI 02876. Or pay with a credit card at our headquarters at the Memorial Town Building (1 Main St) from 10 – noon on Monday-Wednesday.

We can also pick up donations at your door. Any amount helps enormously!

Elder Walter Allen- Patriot, Master Builder, Church Elder

by Al Menard

A brilliant man and a gifted builder whose life carried him from the fervor of colonial patriotism to the quiet authority of a Quaker elder.

Walter Allen can rightly be considered the chief architect of Union Village as we know it today. He built many of the fine colonial structures that still stand along the old Great Road.

He was born in Sandwich, Massachusetts to Captain John Allen and Elizabeth (Spooner) on December 1, 1759. At the age of sixteen he enlisted as a Minuteman and participated in the Battle of Concord in 1775, which marked the beginning of the nation's quest for independence. He was one of the 160 Minutemen defenders at Concord against some eight hundred British soldiers. This marked the first organized American victory of the war. By 1778, Allen was serving under Captain E. Lewis in Colonel Christopher's Rhode Island 1st Battalion, a unit that was recognized for its courage and resilience.

While living in Massachusetts, Allen gained considerable skill as a house carpenter. After moving to Smithfield, he soon became known as a Master Builder. Often regarded as Union Village's principal builder, his architectural style appears in details such as rusticated doorways, pedimented porches, and vaulted ceilings.

Walter married Mehitable Keeley on the first day of 1784. They had a son, Seth and three daughters. Mehitable died in 1795. Five years later Walter married into the Buffum family, who were part of the Quaker migration from Salem Massachusetts in the early 1700s. Walter's new wife, Lucy, was particularly remembered for the fact that she made her silk wedding dress completely by hand. That is, she tended the silkworms, reeled the silk from the cocoons, spun it, colored it, wove it, and then made the dress!

Walter established his residence at the intersection of Great Road and Pound Hill Road. The couple had a daughter, Lydia. Their home would one day be the site of the first Roman Catholic service in the area and was at one time a tavern. In 1804, Walter built a home for his son across the street from his own; it later became the Seth Allen Tavern, a family home today. His builder's portfolio also includes other notable structures such as the George Aldrich Inn (1809), the Daniel Arnold House (1800), the Stephen Brownell House (1800), and the Joel Aldrich House (1808), all situated in Union Village.

In addition to his talent in carpentry, Walter excelled in business and finance. He was the second President of the Smithfield Union Bank, serving in that capacity for nearly thirty years. In his later years he became an Elder in the Friends' Meeting House on Great Road. Locally, he was remembered as a good friend and neighbor as well as a kind and dependable husband and parent.

Walter died on the 23rd of June in 1845 at the age of eighty-five. He is buried in the Old Friends Cemetery near the Friends' Meeting House on Great Road.

It was related that Walter Allen attached his own two-and-a-half-story dwelling in 1802 to the small house built a century before by Hezediah Comstock.

Fifty Years Ago

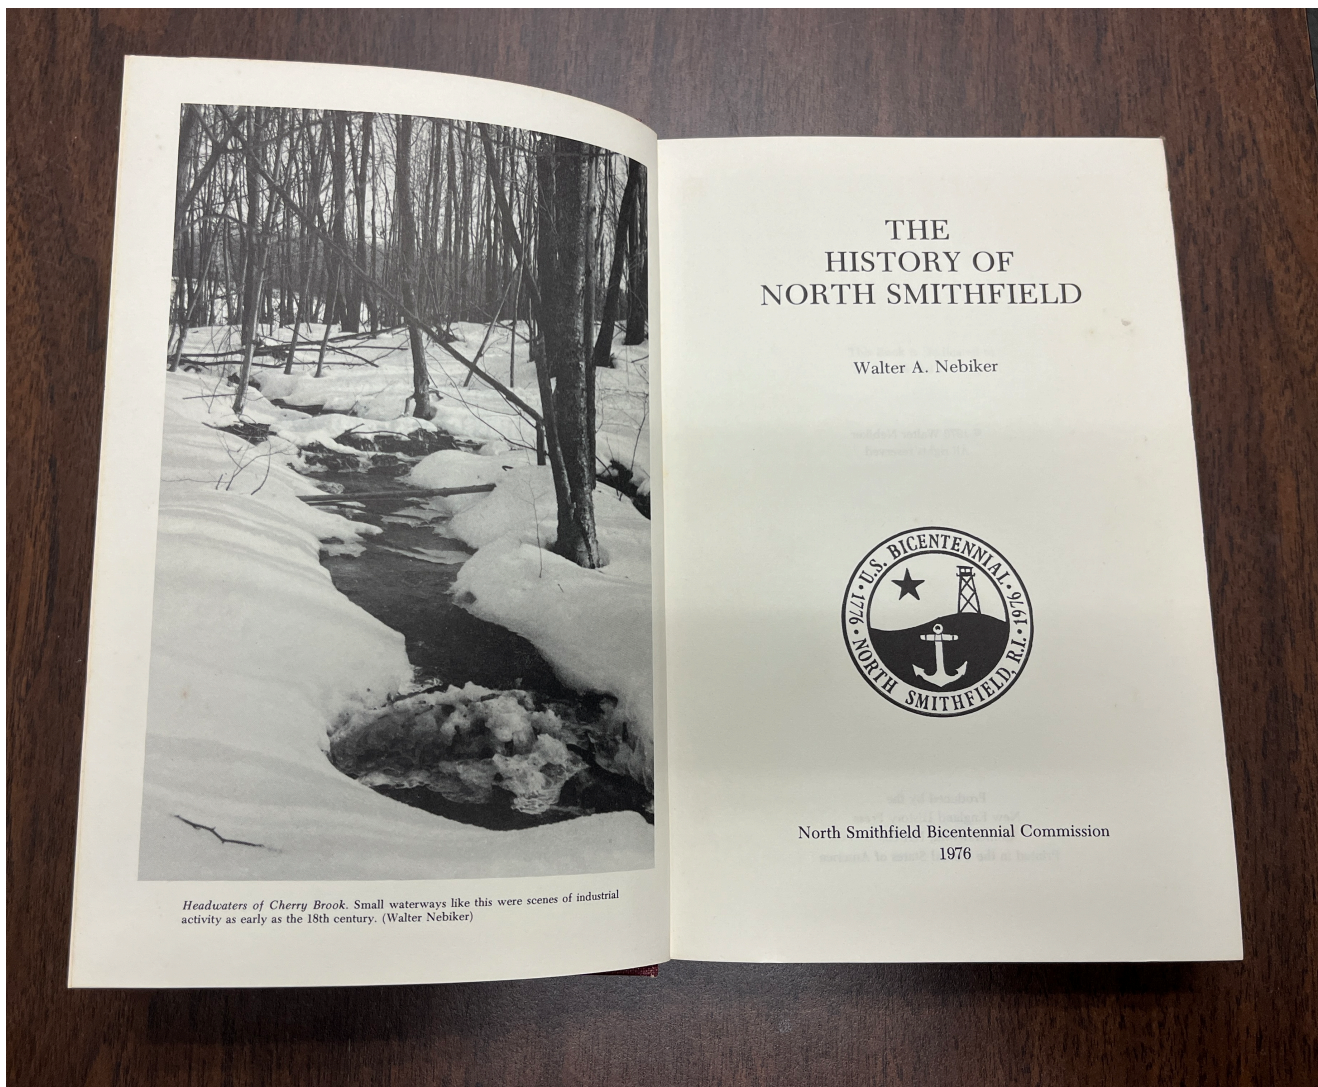

This month's Fifty Years Ago story is taken from the June 1976 edition of the North Smithfield Heritage Association newsletter.

History of North Smithfield is published.

As almost everyone in town is aware, the eagerly awaited History of North Smithfield, by NSHA member Walter A. Nebiker, has been published and went on sale recently. This valuable work, excellently documented and well illustrated by photographs and maps, is sure to become a major resource for research on North Smithfield, from its prehistory to its present. In addition, it tells an absorbing story of the town and its people from earliest times and gives the reader new insight into places and things seen everyday.

The author notes the collaboration of George A. Harvey as a principal editor and reader of the book, who "provided invaluable contributions and suggestions."

The Heritage Association purchased 50 copies of the volume before its publication and has them for sale.

Headwaters of Cherry Brook. Small waterways like this were scenes of industrial activity as early as the 18th century. (Walter Nebiker)

Still available in 2026!!

The NSHA has a few copies of this wonderful resource available for sale.

If interested in obtaining a copy, please visit the Memorial Town Building during open hours or come visit our booth at the Great Pumpkin Festival!

NS 61, The Hiram Mason Lot by Lynne Pelletier

NS 61, The Hiram Mason Lot

Howard, adjoining the William Mowry farm in an open lot, unprotected.” James Newel Arnold was a collector of genealogical records and he transcribed many old gravestones throughout Rhode Island. His collected works were published as a multi-volume set called “The Vital Record of Rhode Island.” His work continues today to provide researchers with valuable information that would otherwise have been lost to time.

The only inscribed headstone belongs to Amey Mowry Mason. Records do not indicate when Amey was born or who her parents were. A marriage record notes that her marriage to Hiram Mason took place on June 15, 1828 in Smithfield. The couple was married by Thomas Mann, Esq.. Amey and Hiram had one child, James H. Mason, who may have been born in about 1832. Amey died just 5 years later on January, 11, 1837.

While her gravestone clearly states she was in the “20th year of her age” it is puzzling because if that were truly the case, she would have been born in about 1817 which means she would have been only about 11 years old at the time of her marriage in 1828! Further research will be needed to unravel this mystery.

Another curious fact, the cemetery is named the “Hiram Mason Lot” however, Hiram Mason is not buried here. Hiram remarried after Amey’s death and by 1850, he is living in Brooklyn, NY with his new wife, Martha Watson. The couple had four more children and eventually moved to Pennsylvania where Hiram died in 1865. He is buried in the Greenwood Cemetery in Warren Center, Pennsylvania. Who is the Hiram Mason that this lot is named for?

Hidden in the woods off of Rocky Hill Road, lies a small cemetery rarely viewed by the public because it is located near the Woonsocket Reservoir on private property owned by the Woonsocket Water Department. The Hiram Mason Lot was originally thought to be located in Smithfield and was called SM 088 until GPS coordinates indicated that the lot was actually within the bounds of North Smithfield.

The actual size of the cemetery is unknown because there are no boundary markers or an enclosure of any kind. The number of graves is also unknown because the majority of the graves are only marked by fieldstones. There is just one inscribed headstone and at least three, if not more, of unmarked fieldstones hidden among the leaves and brush that cover the wooded lot. The cemetery rests on the slope of a small hill.

The cemetery was first transcribed by James N. Arnold who described it as “on a farm belonging to William A.

In memory of Amey Mason, wife of Hiram Mason, who died Jan. 11, 1837 in the 20th year of her age.

A stone bridge on the Augustus Field Pig Farm where the pigs would walk across to Field's station.

In last month's newsletter we brought you a short article about the Augustus Field Pig Farm. Here it is again in case you missed it.

According to History of Providence County, Vol I & II, Ed. by Richard M. Bayles, "Augustus E. Field came to North Smithfield in 1879. Mr. Field, in company with his son, George A., is in the piggery business, runs a farm of 300 acres, has 1,200 hogs, 10 horses, 5 yoke of oxen, 15 cows, 200 head of steers and 42 sheep."

The Providence and Springfield Railroad ran its first passenger train, from Providence to Pascoag, in 1873. This route traversed the rural southwestern corner of town. The Primrose Station, built on Farnum Pike, gave its name to the neighborhood it served.

Field's Station, near present Lake Bel Air, was named for the railroad stop; here, garbage was brought from the city to a large pig farm. The Field Farm was one of the largest commercial piggeries in Southern New England.

Today, only the stone foundation of the piggery remains on what is now the Gold Property on Mattity Road.

The Research Team continues to locate and document local colonial, indigenous and other historical stone features.

Ron Lapierre is the RI Coordinator for the New England Antiquities Research Assn. (NEARA)

The Research Team generally meets at 6:30 pm at Heritage Hall on the second Friday of each month.

Please contact NSHA or just show up if you'd like to participate!

Union Village Documentary

LABOR DAY DEBUT FOR UNION VILLAGE DOCUMENTARY

During the American Revolution, Rhode Island Quakers' principle of non-violence was put to the test. The Religious Society of Friends was urged to take sides, but they mostly abstained from the war altogether. In 1777, a prominent Providence Quaker, Moses Brown, wrote to fellow Friends throughout RI about exemptions from service for pacifists. Brown believed that such an exemption came with a heightened sense of responsibility.

In a quiet village of Woonsocket Crossroads, Friends of the Smithfield Monthly Meeting, who had gathered in prayer for over 70 years, received this message and contemplated how to best navigate the war. Some adhered strictly to their pacifist belief, remaining neutral and never picking up weapons. Others, including some men buried in the local Friends Cemetery, signed on to fulfill their patriotic military duty. For RI 250, the time to tell their stories - and the history of the Union Village community - is now. Bringing this story to film ensures that the legacy of Union Village Quakers lives on, and that their experience of war touches new generations.

Union Village was directed by filmmaker Christian de Rezendes and written by historian and National Park Ranger, Allison Horrocks, Christian de Rezendes and Richard Keene. This collaboration brings the Friends' significant history to life and highlights the wartime experiences of an often under-explored area of the state. The RI 250 Committee and Ocean State Media both provided grants to fund this project.

Union Village debuted on Monday, September 7, 2026, (Labor Day) at the Museum of Work and Culture in Woonsocket. A panel discussion followed with the makers of the film.

Union Village will have its PBS premiere on Ocean State Media on Thursday, October 22, 2026 at 8:00 pm.

The premiere of the Union Village Documentary at The Museum Of Work and Culture.

Maintenance

Heritage Hall, 101 Green Street.

Memorial Town Building, 1 Main Street.

Forestdale School, 190 School Street

Jon Peirce repaired the picket fences at the Forestdale School and at Heritage Hall. They need to be painted now. September generally brings cooler weather. Please contact us at nsha@nsheritageassn if you'd like to help. Hours are flexible!

We regretfully report that a debilitating health issue has forced Charlie Dubois to resign as the Director of Maintenance. This is a serious setback to our operations. For many years, he has been the driving force in our efforts to restore, renovate, and maintain the Heritage Hall, the Forestdale School, and the Memorial Town Building. We sincerely thank Charlie for his selfless and dedicated service and wish him well in his efforts to regain his good health!

Help Wanted!

Looking for volunteers to help with our maintenance team. The team makes minor repairs to the three historic buildings and grounds. Please contact us at nsha@nsheritageassn.com if you'd like to help out!

Thanks to Ellie Rousselle and Mark Brizard we've been able to identify a few of these young students.

Ellie writes that her sister, Jackie Renaud is in the second row, fifth person and wearing a plaid dress. The girl in the pink dress before her is identified as Lisa Sadwin.

Mark Brizard shared that "Paula Branchaud and Mike Uralowich are in the top row middle and end respectively. Also, Chris Bukata and Miles Briggs are middle row 4th and 3rd from right respectively." The students appear to be about 8-9 years old and it would have been approximately 1966-1967.

Do those names ring any bells for anyone? If you can help identify more of these children, please let us know.

The NSHA often receives photos without any type of identification which is why we post them here.
Please help us to identify them for our archives!

This month we are curious about the picture on the left. Why is this roped barrier significant enough to warrant a photo? Is it a barrier or the entrance to a walking trail maybe?

Many of the collage photos contain unidentified people and may be used as future mystery photos. If you'd like to see the entire collage, please stop by the Memorial Town Building. You may be able to solve some mysteries for us!
